Amazing Summer Opportunity to learn in an outdoor setting!

An opportunity to learn real life skills in science, technology and media arts while having fun in the outdoors.

Summer Outdoor Learning

Program Design:

Each day is filled with team building, outdoor challenges and healthy outdoor recreation, as well as real life hands-on learning in science, technology, and media arts. Highlights include: Science as the group studies ecology, wildlife, milfoil, and water quality. Take part in a robotic milfoil research project and learn the latest scientific techniques. Technology will include robotics, GPS/GIS, and digital media. Natural settings allow us to reflect on life experiences, learn from others, and share our passions as individuals. This summer will provide young people with real life-long applied learning.

Students will have the opportunity to explore new hands-on experiential lessons, evaluate and give teachers honest feedback about their experience. Be part of new lessons and educational techniques.
